

Dear Expectant Parents,

Congratulations and Welcome!

We are a group of general Obstetrician/Gynecologists. We see patients in many locations—at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in the Herbert Irving Pavilion at 165th St and Fort Washington Avenue, at 51 West 51st Street, at 1790 Broadway and in Rockland County in Orangeburg, New York.

We look forward to providing you with personal and up to date obstetrical care. Our affiliation with Columbia University's Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology allows us to provide women with the personal care associated with a private practice while having all the benefits of a leading medical center.

Those benefits include cutting edge sonography, world-renowned high risk obstetricians available for consultation or referral, anesthesiologists who specialize in the care of pregnant women, and a level 3 neonatal ICU that is one of the world's finest.

Many major breakthroughs in obstetrics and pediatrics occurred at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center. Our affiliation allows us to participate in residency education and to support research that will ensure future generations of skilled physicians and continued improvements in obstetrics and pediatrics. You may have the opportunity of meeting members of the research team during your prenatal visits and will certainly meet our fine team of residents upon admission to the hospital.

Your baby will be born in the state of the art Thain Labor and Delivery Suite in the Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital located at the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, Broadway and 165th Street. Our experienced and dedicated nursing staff and lactation consultants will aid your transition to parenthood.

Enclosed please find information on various topics related to your pregnancy all of which can be discussed during your upcoming visits.
